

User Documentation

Welcome to IT Girl Transport! No matter the gender, you can be That Girl, the IT Girl™, and we'll transport you wherever you need to go! In addition to being That Girl, you can also help by becoming a driver yourself!

This user guide will help walk you through key features of the website so that you can make the most out of the website and your experience.

1. Getting Started

To get started, you must first Sign Up or Login.

When you try to access any part of the website, it'll redirect you to a login page.

If you've made an account before, you can simply enter your email and password and click "Login" to access your profile and get ready to either drive or be driven to your location.

If you haven't made an account yet, look for the "Don't have an account?" From there you'll be provided with two options, where you can either sign up as a rider or a driver! Whether you're signing up as a rider or a driver, you'll need an email, a username and a strong password.

Drivers will also have to include basic information about their vehicle like the car type, car color and license plate.

2. Profile Overview

Now once logged in, drivers will be redirected to their own profile page. Your profile will have your car information along with two buttons that will allow you to either edit or delete your information.

The "delete" button will redirect you back to your profile page so that you can confirm that your information has been updated correctly. Note that the delete does not have a confirmation pop up, please make sure that if you hit delete that you wanted to delete your information.

The "edit" button, on the other hand, will redirect you to a form so that you can edit your information as you see fit. The edit button will also allow you to add car information if you previously removed it.

3. Request a Ride Page

Once logged in, riders will be redirected to the Request a Ride page. Here you'll be faced with a form that will ask not only for your location and the time you would like to be picked up, but it will also allow you to specify what kind of car you'd like to be picked up by. In addition to that, you'll be asked to input all of the necessary information to pay for the service.

4. Ride Confirmation Page

One of the last pages for a driver is the ride confirmation page. On this page, drivers can see all the IT Girls™ waiting for a ride, and from there they can select who they're willing to pick up and set the route to their IT Girl™.

5. Ride Information Page

Last, but certainly not least, we have our Ride Information page. On this page, a rider and a driver both will be able to see information about the ride. This includes both the IT Girl™'s name, as well as our driver's name, as well as the ability to see your own location and the other's location so you can properly track the distance between one another.
